CERTIFICATE IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS NEGOTIATION (6 credits)

The Dispute Resolution Institute at Hamline University School of Law in cooperation with the International Institute for Conflict Engagement and Resolution (IICER), Hong Kong Shue Yan University, offers students the opportunity to complete a six-credit integrated in-residence and distance learning program in international business negotiation. The in-residence two-credit negotiation course introduces students to the skills and dynamics of the negotiation process. Students will complete the in-residence negotiation course either in Hong Kong or Minnesota. Thereafter, via distance learning, students from both locations will work and study together to complete a four-credit Advanced International Business Negotiation course.

This program format allows students to experience the dynamic nature of international business negotiation and to engage with each other in the way that international business occurs — both in person and through distance technology.

See our program website (law.hamline.edu/certificates/negotiation.html) for the Certificate in International Business Negotiation application.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Dispute Systems Design

May 28 – June 2

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

Dispute systems design integrates conflict resolution principles with organizational development practices. Organizations ranging from private multinational corporations to public education agencies and non-profits have tailored dispute systems to address conflict internally and externally. Through constructive approaches to conflict anticipation, management, and resolution, these organizations have realized the benefits of ADR to include higher morale, lower turnover, and less frequent litigation. This course examines the historical evolution of dispute systems design and offers a step-by-step application of best practices in assessment, system design, implementation, and evaluation. Course exercises and readings emphasize stakeholder involvement, organizational culture audits, appropriate dispute resolution processes, and strategic program implementation.

Faculty: Timothy Hedeon, Professor of Conflict Management, Kennesaw State University

Trial Advocacy

May 28 – June 3

3 law school credits

Qualifies for 35 CLE credits; not eligible for MN Rule 114 continuing education credits.

This course provides training in trial advocacy skills for each stage of trial. Areas covered include ethics, psychology of persuasion, opening statement, direct examination, exhibits, objections, cross examination, and closing argument. The teaching methods will include lecture, demonstration, discussion, simulation, instructor critique, and video critique. The final exam will be a trial.

Prerequisite: Evidence

Faculty: James Morrow, Senior Fellow, Hamline University School of Law; Senior District Judge

Theories of Conflict

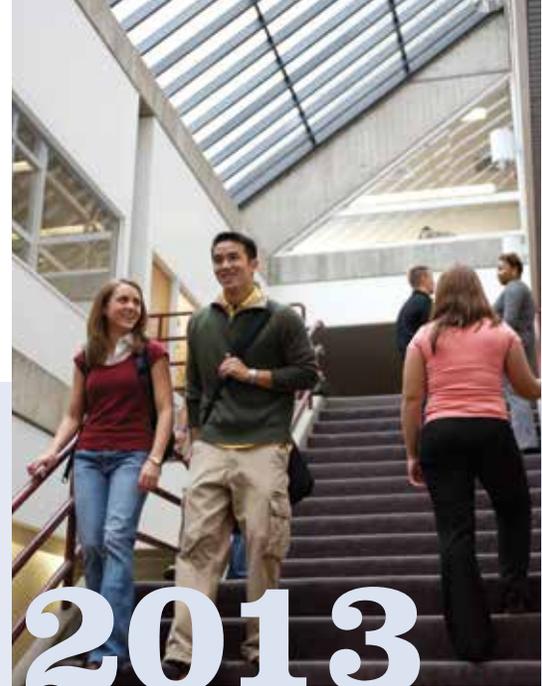

June 5 – 11

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

This interdisciplinary course introduces students to important theoretical perspectives on our understanding of conflict and conflict response. Specifically, students explore the biological/physiological, psychodynamic, social psychological, communication, and sociological/political perspectives on conflict by reading and discussing major theoretical works within each perspective. Emphasis is on comparing and distinguishing key dimensions of these theories, such as the nature and sources of conflict, conflict escalation, conflict response, and the nature of the third party role. Classes follow an interactive format. Using case studies, exercises, and group discussion to draw upon personal experiences, including those involving race and social identity, the course explores the usefulness of each perspective to understand the experience of conflict.

Faculty: Ken Fox, Professor, Hamline University School of Business; Senior Fellow, Dispute Resolution Institute, Hamline University School of Law

Alternative Dispute Resolution of Employment Disputes

June 12 – 18

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

This course explores the private resolution of workplace and equal opportunity employment disputes arising primarily in the non-union setting. Starting with a review of the historical and legal contexts, the course will review theories of workplace mission, employee diversity, organizational justice, power imbalances, and ADR ethics. There will be focused emphasis on the use of negotiation, facilitation, mediation, and arbitration in workplace disputes, along with discussion of design, implementation, and evaluation of dispute resolution within organizations. Advanced themes will include mediation of employment class action litigation, the role of the corporate ombudsperson, conflict coaching, conflict style diagnostics, and federal workplace ADR.

Faculty: Richard Fincher, Managing Partner, Workplace Resolution LLC

Mediation

June 19 – 28

3 law school credits

Qualifies for 35 CLE credits. This course satisfies MN Rule 114 certification standards for civil facilitative/hybrid neutrals.

Through discussion, simulations, and roleplay, this course focuses on the structure and goals of the mediation process and on the skills and techniques mediators use to aid parties in overcoming barriers to dispute resolution. The course also examines the underlying negotiation orientations and strategies that mediators may confront and employ; the roles of attorneys and clients; dealing with difficult people and power imbalances; cultural, race, and social identity considerations; and ethical issues for lawyers and mediators. In addition, special attention is devoted to the art of successful representation of clients in mediation.

Faculty: Art Hinshaw, Clinical Professor of Law and Director, Lodestar Dispute Resolution Program, Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law, Arizona State University

Decision Making in a Chaotic Reality

July 8 – 16

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

Professionals in today's chaotic world must develop the skills necessary to handle those inevitable situations in which external events intrude upon, and interfere with, the professionals' abilities to make clear and appropriate decisions. These situations of uncertainty can easily deteriorate into crises. If not handled correctly, they also can cause irreversible damage to relationships. In order to be effective in such situations, conflict professionals must possess the capacity to collect, assess and adapt new and changing information. They must also develop their creative capacities and vision to take into account and address the consequences for the future ("the day after"). Using the most contemporary tools and methodologies for creative problem solving, students will develop the skills needed for making good decisions in a chaotic reality.

Faculty: Michael Tsur, Founder and Director, Mediation and Conflict Resolution Institute, Jerusalem; Adjunct Professor of Mediation, College of Law, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Challenging Conversations

July 13 and 14

1 law school credit

Qualifies for 12 CLE credits; 12 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

This course challenges students to master key communication and conflict processing skills. Negotiating when we are personally and emotionally involved is one of our greatest challenges. But is it possible not to be involved? Can we check our feelings at the door? Communication skills, like handling challenging conversations, allow negotiation to happen, and help us get back on track when things get stuck. The course methodology is based on the book, Difficult Conversations: How to Discuss What Matters Most, authored by Douglas Stone, Bruce Patton, and Sheila Heen from the Program on Negotiation at Harvard Law School. The course will focus on two skills dimensions: internal skills — the ability to work with your thoughts and feelings before and during a conversation; and external skills — the things we need to say and do in a conversation to help it go better. Mastering these skills offers the possibility of negotiation success even when your negotiating partners do not share your aspiration to collaborate. The course is constructed as an intensive workshop, including group discussions, simulations, and challenging conversations set in a wide variety of contexts.

Faculty: Michael Tsur, Founder and Director, Mediation and Conflict Resolution Institute, Jerusalem; Adjunct Professor of Mediation, College of Law, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Saint Paul Campus Summer

Negotiation

July 17 - 23

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

This course examines the skills, constraints, and dynamics of the negotiation process. A theoretical framework for understanding negotiation practice in a variety of contexts will be developed through readings, highly interactive exercises, and role-plays. The course addresses fundamental skills such as systematic preparation, management of the negotiation process, and identification of optimal agreements. Ethical constraints of negotiation also are considered. Course content is drawn from the fields of law, psychology, business, and communication.

Faculty: Giuseppe De Palo, International, Professor of ADR Law and Practice, Hamline University School of Law, Co-Founder, ADR Center, Italy

Family Mediation

July 25 - 30

3 law school credits

Qualifies for 40 CLE credits. This course satisfies MN Rule 114 certification standards for family law facilitative neutrals.

This is a challenging, high-energy course in basic divorce mediation skills and practice development. Along with the basic content areas of divorce settlement — property division, parenting, child and spousal support, divorce tax issues — the course also addresses the role of consultants and lawyers, conflict theory, psychological issues, power balancing, domestic abuse, drafting agreements, and mediation ethics. Although designed with the law student and family lawyer in mind, the course also is an ideal training and specialization opportunity for therapists and other social service professionals. This course emphasizes experiential learning with the opportunity for individual feedback from experienced coaches.

Faculty: Aimee Gourlay, Director, Mediation Center, Hamline University School of Law

Arbitration

July 24 - 30

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; satisfies MN Rule 114 certification standard for civil adjudicative/evaluative neutrals.

This foundation course covers the salient points of U.S. arbitration law as it relates to domestic and international matters. The course curriculum begins with an introduction to the basic legal concepts that make up arbitration law and to the institutions that are central to arbitration practice. Consideration of the Federal Arbitration Act follows, along with a systematic treatment of the role of contract in arbitration and the function of subject matter inarbitrability. Problems relating to the enforcement of arbitral awards, the role of the arbitrator (focusing on the arbitrator's functions, duties, and responsibilities), and other practice issues are examined. The basic facets of international commercial arbitration also are introduced. Through lectures, demonstrations, discussions, and simulations, this interactive curriculum is designed to foster effective use of contemporary arbitral processes.

Faculty: Thomas Carbonneau, Samuel P. Orlando Distinguished Professor of Law, Dickinson School of Law, Penn State

Cross-Cultural Dispute Resolution

July 31 - August 6

2 law school credits

Qualifies for 24 CLE credits; 24 MN Rule 114 continuing education credits applied for.

This course examines how obvious and not-so-obvious cultural difference impacts resolution of inter-personal and inter-state (international) disputes. Specifically, the course will bring an international perspective to understanding the impact of culture in the most commonly used international and domestic dispute resolution processes (negotiation, mediation and arbitration). It will follow a three-step approach to know and understand the influence of culture on decision-making, including: awareness and knowledge of one's own culture; knowledge and understanding of another party's culture; and knowledge and impact of either on the desired goal/outcome of the dispute. This course will help students be more culturally aware and better equipped for effective participation in dispute resolution processes that increasingly involve different languages, customs, values, nationalities, and states of origin.

Faculty: Sukhsimranjit Singh, Associate Director, Center for Dispute Resolution; Director, LL.M. in Dispute Resolution, Willamette College of Law

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students must attend all class sessions and complete an advance reading assignment. Degree-seeking students must submit a written paper or complete an exam, except for the Trial Advocacy course for which the final graded exercise is a simulated trial. Students may take one or more courses. With the exception of Trial Advocacy, no course requires a prerequisite. Hamline law students may take either the Mediation or Family Mediation course but may not take both for academic credit. Enrollment is limited to enhance the interactive nature of each course.

COURSE MATERIALS

All courses require completion of a reading assignment prior to the first class meeting. Syllabi for all courses will be made available the first week of May and will include a list of the text/course materials which students will need to purchase. The advance reading assignment will be provided prior to the start of each course.

REGISTRATION

Law/Graduate/HUSL Certificate

Students: Degree-seeking students currently enrolled in an ABA accredited law school should complete Part A of the application form and return it with a letter from their school's registrar reflecting the applicant's status as a student in good standing with permission to take the Hamline course(s) as a visiting student.

NOTE: Hamline law and certificate students do not need a letter of good standing from the registrar.

Attorneys: Attorneys may apply to take summer courses by completing Part B of the application form. Attorneys will be granted special student status. CLE and MN Rule 114 credits will be granted upon completion of each course.

Others: Other professionals may apply to take summer courses by completing Part C of the application form. To be considered, applicants must furnish a transcript indicating completion of an undergraduate or graduate degree.

TUITION

Tuition for degree-seeking students is $1,220 per credit. This includes students seeking credit for a graduate degree or those seeking credits to complete the Hamline Certificate Program in Dispute Resolution.

Tuition for audit students is $610 per credit with the exception of the Mediation and Family Mediation courses which are offered at a flat fee of $1,100.

A $150 per course, non-refundable tuition deposit must accompany all applications. The tuition deposit will be deducted from the total tuition amount. This deposit will only be returned if the applicant is not accepted into the course. The balance of the tuition is due one week prior to the beginning class session for each course after which no refund will be made.

Applications are accepted on a first-come/first-registered basis. Students will receive confirmation of enrollment via email. Hamline University School of Law reserves the right to cancel any course that does not meet minimum enrollment requirements. Any request to drop a course must be in writing.
